Extracto

I am Business Management and Finance student at Universidad Panamericana. My role involves applying financial analysis, strategic thinking, and problem-solving to support innovative financial solutions and growth strategies.

My academic and professional experiences include financial modeling, project management, and business optimization. I've also gained expertise in digital business development and marketing, organizing high-impact events that deliver measurable results.

I am passionate about finance, technology, and contributing to meaningful projects that drive growth and success. Let's connect and explore opportunities to collaborate!
